Alachua Habitat for Humanity Welcomes New Partnership with True Force Roofing

Gainesville – Alachua Habitat for Humanity is thrilled to announce a significant partnership with True Force Roofing, a local leader in roofing services. True Force Roofing has committed to donating one roof per quarter, culminating in three roofs this year, to support the construction of affordable homes in Alachua County. This collaboration underscores the ongoing need for community support in housing initiatives and will greatly aid in reducing overall building costs.

With the ever-increasing costs of construction materials and skilled labor, the challenge of providing affordable housing continues to grow. Alachua Habitat for Humanity invites local trade professionals to join in this crucial effort by donating materials and skilled services. Contributions such as electrical work, plumbing, masonry, and more are invaluable. By partnering with organizations like True Force Roofing, Habitat is able to make a greater impact in building safe, affordable homes for families in need.

True Force Roofing, founded by an Air Force Veteran, is deeply committed to the Gainesville community, focusing on integrity, attention-to-detail, and service. "We are proud to support Alachua Habitat for Humanity in their mission to build affordable homes. Our partnership is an extension of our commitment to the community and our desire to contribute positively to the lives of those around us." states a representative from True Force Roofing.

Stevie Doyle, Executive Director of Alachua Habitat for Humanity, expressed enthusiasm about the new partnership: "True Force Roofing's generous donation is a game-changer for us. Their commitment helps lower construction costs significantly, allowing us to serve more families. We are deeply thankful for their support and look forward to what we can achieve together."
